I had this feeling
i was born on the side of road same old cliché that rimes with winding and load i met this friends on my way down south they seemed more lost than me their journey lasted endlessly and it kept on haunting me i was (living in a suitcase) finding no peace of mind (living in a suitcase) restless since the dawn of time (living in a suitcase) searchin' for that true peace of mind mom always told me she used to drive me around all night if she had to put me to sleep, calm down people travel, some never will and that's all right with me i still get down seein' misery but i got movin' with me I was (living in a suitcase)
finding no peace of mind (living in a suitcase)
restless since the dawn of time (living in a suitcase)
urging for peace to settle down backingvocals she couldn't find no peace of mind restless since the dawn of time searching for true peace of mind she could no find it overseas urgin' travellin'for that peace (keep on searching not oversees) urgin' to settle down (it's time to oh settle down) she knows it's some where down the line so she keeps travellin' from town to town she's gonna search until she finds (i got you moving with me)
she could not find peace of mind, with my 50 pair of shoes restless since the dawn of time, 60 dresses searching for,
true peace of mind, time to time to settle down}
