She set out to make a change and leave her broken shattered past behind

To get back to the fairy tales she dreamed about when she was just a child

She used to be an optimist but now she sees the obvious

She's running out of places to call home

At nighttime she cries out and lets the skylights be her audience

Cause no one else will listen to her sad and lonely song

She's looking for an antidote

She's looking for a man that won't

Take advantage of her heart and steal her soul

Leave her in the freezing cold

A remedy that will take the pain away

So she can go and start her life over again

Let the broken pieces mend

At age 19 she's tried it all but can't remove the poison from her veins

She blames herself and tries to numb the shame and guilt by self inflicting pain

But something deep inside her heart kindles and ignites a spark

Burns like candles lighting up her dark

She feels the air and breathes it in and dares herself to dream again

Lets go of all to search for something worth believing in

Now is not forever all that's seen will fade away, these wars will end

There is an Antidote to heal your broken pain there is a Lifeline that hides inside the Maker of your frame He gave His Life hold your head up high you will get by you will get by

Hold your head up high you will get by
