This is not the life that I had planned
I'm standing on a patch of sinking sand
The man I thought I once would be is far from where I am
And this pain staking process is wearing me thin again

Come into this broken dream and breathe down on me
breathe down on me
Sing yourself through a melody and breathe down on
me breathe down on me

I can't remember where it all went wrong
Before I knew it all of me was gone
But when I lost it all that's when my life truly began And I found myself secure in the palm of your hand again

Come into this broken dream and breathe down on me
breathe down on me
Sing yourself through a melody and breathe down on
me breathe down on me

Come into this broken dream and breathe down on me
breathe down on me
Sing yourself through a melody and breathe down on
me breathe down on me
