All of your affection is gone baby and your love is growing cold
I said, all of your affection is gone baby and your love is growing cold
Hey and I've got a new story to tell you this evening, baby
One that ain't never been told

I went to work the other day
But I thought that I'd double back
And that car I saw sitting in front of my door Looked like a brand new, a brand new Cadillac

Yes, I ain't got none now, baby
I think you've been cheating on me
I believe to my soul baby, you've given me some outside help
That I don't think I really need

The iceman came by this morning
And you know, he didn't leave no ice Postman came by later baby
And he didn't even ring twice

Yes, I think you've been cheating on me
I think you're running out on me
I believe to my soul baby that you've given me some
outside help
That I don't think I really need

Now, I want you to tell the iceman
The next time he'd better leave some ice
And I want you to tell the postman
He'd better ring more than twice

And when I come home from work in the morning
Better still be some groceries on the shelf
And I want you to tell that slick insurance man That he'd better write some insurance on his self

Yes, I think you've been cheating on me
I think you're running out on me

I believe to my soul baby, that you've given me some help, some help
Some help, I don't really need
