I brought you some Francs from my traveling chest
You'll spare me the thanks 'til you know I'm the best
So come Hogmonay when love comes in slurs
Resolutions I'll make and you can label them, 'Hers'

We threw our hands up high
We nearly touched the sky
We clicked our heels and spat and swore
We'd never let it die

All those boy wonders
Sold their medals when they saw this train
Now this boy wonders
When he'll feel the fall of honest rain

I came from high land
Here the hopefuls have to hesitate
Now this boy wonders
Why the words were never worth the wait

Waiting, waiting
In pastel paper pink over gray
We wrap, wrap, wrap and chuck, chuck away
The poor excuse they peddle as their prose

Dry your tears, tie your tongue and you're never sixteen
And I'll give you a glimpse of the hard and the clean
And my traveling chest will be open to you
And boy will you learn that you haven't a clue

I even asked my best friend but he could not explain
It hit me when I left him
I felt the rain and called it genius
Called it genius

All those boy wonders
Sold their medals when they saw this train
Now this boy wonders
When he'll feel the fall of honest rain

I came from high land

Here the hopefuls have to hesitate
Now this boy wonders
Why the words were never worth the wait

High land, hard rain
High land, hard rain
High land, hard rain
High land, hard rain

High land, hard rain
High land, hard rain
High land, hard rain
