The new times have brought wealth and wisdom to every single body. We've Overcome the color of skin, prejudices and the longing to rule on others.
And yes, we've even overcome money, our scourge for centuries.

In a single word, we've become what you might call unhuman. Stripping off Our human skin brought us to completely new shores, both in evolutionary And intellectual aspects. We're reaching for higher aims in spite of Denying all the main features that once built our society. So we've finally Crossed the threshold to generation Z and space is at last the final Frontier.

And maybe - if humanity wouldn't have acted that human - our society could Have become reality. But unfortunately - as you all might know - the United States is no welfare organisation.
