If I cling onto you like this
I thought that you'd forget me easily
So with my head hung down
I turned back and walked away

*I don't think I told you my heart yet
I call you again but in my ear I only hear the bell ringing
I'm going to forget now
You're probably not going to believe this
But if a heart leaves then it's not going to come back

I don't know If I can forget you as time passes
But I'm going to erase all my scars in my heart

If I think of the separation that I only heard of
Then a bitter laughter comes out
I grieve a lot and cry a lot
When I really have to forget now...

Repeat * (2x)
