back for the first time and I ain't leaving again without fam I'll lose before I even begin home at last and I'm breathing it in you see the surface value I know the hidden secrets within so I gotta represent for the people on the ave where status ain't measured by how much you have and I know that this world will come to pass but the goal of the game, I'm still running past or it's like I'm hiding behind a mask and ain't coming out until enough time has passed but na I can't ignore the signs I need to start looking out for more than mine but I stop at the borderline cause I'm in fear of losing what I hold dear but what do I have here all I got is my fellow man, they outside I belong by their side, we fight to stay alive

CHORUS:

come around my way
I ain't got nothin but a ball and a chain tell me mister man do still wanna play my people stand up just say it's gon be OK

and at the end of the day It's hard to hold back trying to place all the blame living in a struggle but I stay in the game

sincere people keep putting in work cause change is dependent on what we each do trust I'm here with you, and they wonder how I'ma reach the masses but the last thing that I could do is down it down cause that would just add insult to the injury this mindset has been injecting into me so you have got to be kidding me I could care less what the majority of the upper class considers interesting that's all irrelevant and I can't even tell if it's what we really feel is right or what is on the television made to forget the honor of wisdom intelligence look my peoples road of life ain't made out of yellow bricks I've said it before, this day is like never before today we settle the score for what we stand for and demand more out of each other as one when we discover we're one, and then the struggle is won

come around my way

It's hard to hold back trying to place all the blame
