It's such a lonely world / So many chances to mess it up
And she's such a lonely girl
Stirring her drink never looking up Well this bar's full of people who never will meet the just stare at each other cuz their too shy to speak you can bend them break them, never relate them
there's just something wrong with the blue print

It's such a lonely world / So many chances to mess it up
And he's such a lonely boy
He's got 23 years left in lockup
Well he's raised in the projects, lost his dad at just 4
Grew up in jail after he settled the score
You can bend them break them never mistake them
there's just something wrong with the blue print

Well these crimes they are signs
It's just all in the lines don't you know
Nobody's perfect it's all just design of the mold - oh no

You can fight it all you can
But you're only a man

It's such a lonely world / So many chances to mess it up
And he's such a lonely man
Finds it hard just to get up
Cuz he lost his wife sitting by the side of her bed
He's two hours late now he's wishing he's dead
You can bend them, break them never relate them
There's just something wrong with the blueprint

Well these crimes they are signs
It's just all in the lines don't you know
Nobody's perfect it's all just design of the mold - oh no
You can fight it all you can
But you're only a man

He's lonely, She's lonely, Someone's more lonely than you
He's lonely, She's lonely, Someone's more lonely than
you
He's lonely, She's lonely, Someone's more lonely than

you
