I'm looking back on
All the places that I went wrong
I tried to go back
But It's been to long
So I find myself
Wondering like someone time forgot
I can't help thinking 'bout
All the things I know I'm not

Chorus:

I feel like running from the man I've been
After causing so much pain
I feel like hiding from the things I've done
And the wreckage that remains
Even if I go back to that other place
Where things were like before
I'd still be the same ole man that ran away
I don't wanna run anymore

I feel so cut off
From anything in me I've ever loved
I tried to reinvent myself
But I got nothing to build on
I've broken down everything
That was ever there to break
Starting over now all by myself
Is more than I can take

Chorus:

I feel like running from the man I've been
After causing so much pain
I feel like hiding from the things I've done
And the wreckage that remains
Even if I go back to that other place
Where things were like before
I'd be the same ole man that ran away

Bridge:

I don't wanna be the man I've been
I just don't know how I should begin
Sometimes I feel like running, running

Sometimes I feel like running, running

Chorus:

I feel like running from the man I've been
After causing so much pain

I feel like hiding from the things I've done

And the wreckage that remains

Even if I go back to that other place

Where things were like before

I'd still be the same ole man that ran away

I don't wanna run anymore
