Rose Brice's Saloon on Henry Street is the center of a block party decorated with banners congratulating Fanny. The neighbors and party guests all sing:

[All:]

Henry Street,

No, it ain't Broadway, it's Henry Street.

Way after midnight

Lit up as bright as a lighthouse

Brighter tonight than the White House.

[Boys:]

We're proud to tell you that C.P.A.'s

We got in dozens, and lawyers, take your choice.

Messes and messes of young D.D.-esses,

A looney who teaches voice,

[Girls:]

Ah, ha, ha, ha--

[All:]

Henry Street has something it ain't had so far:

The greatest, most glamorous, genuine, glorified
Ziegfeld star.

We're proud to tell you that C.P.A.'s

We got in dozens, and lawyers, take your choice.

Messes and messes of young D.D.-esses,

A looney who teaches voice,

Ah, ha, ha, ha--

Henry Street has something it ain't had so far:

The greatest, most glamorous, genuine, glorified
Ziegfeld star.
