I touched the ink on my paper, a permanent scar i'm gonna carry forever to remember your arms and though your eyes were december when you had june in your heart and now your hands are so restless, I never knew how you felt and now i'm crossing my fingers, cause nothing else helps, and I don't want to forget you but I can't help myself

I want to hang on even though you're gone and it won't be long 'til winter's gone again oh, oh, I want to hang on even though you're gone
