And even with an opportunity I know that there is really Nothing left to say that you missed another birthday and
You will never get this back and it is more than just Chemical I should have never had to figure out all of These lessons on my own but you've got your life and now
I have mine so pack it in

I was never more than just a reason to you well I'm not Your reason.
I can stand on my own
I was never given the chance to make you proud there will Never be another chance to hold my hand
To pick me up when I'm down
To show you I care
It's just too late
To come back home
