The dawn arise, a new surprise, armageddon in disguise
The fog lies thick on morning ground, Spreading it's fingers untamed
A choking sun has just begun it's painful trip
To a total eclipse Crimson darkness, oh sweet darkness come conceal my world Flashing black clouds fills the sky, a mist descends in wraith Mountains crumble, forests stumble, time itself turns dead Silence breeds eternal expectations,
The ancient gods await in awe Never knowing what to hear, or what to see

Yet the louring sky beholds, yet the ancient ones foretold Crimson darkness clench the earth, Blackened clouds give demons birth

The silence breaks as the earth it shakes,
The mountain cracks as we attack
And enormous rumble rises as the sky explodes in red Hundred thousand armored demons hail their king and draw their swords
"- Oh. My god, our world collapses!" the Chirstian's shrieks in fear
"- Enter chaos!" I pronounce as ancient armies rage to war An avalanche of swords and spears, cataclysm for mankind
Mesmerized and satanized by demoniacal twilight Blood on ice when life demise for Christian hearts despise

To war, we draw, out to the mighty battlefields,
All that's in our hearts is battlelust, we'll crush, You're feeble gods white armies, for your death has arrived

Unholiness unspoken breeds of twilight's night

Lurking in the shadows waiting to arise
Of ancient gods I have been spawned, Of ancient might I have been born Behold me and my armies as the end comes for your life
