Leeson Street Lady, walking down Appian Way, Leeson Street Lady, you' ve been working night and day
Trying to find a client, someone to pay,
Leeson Street Lady, you' re an easy lay.
Leeson Street Lady, why don' t you walk out your door
Some women stay at home and have children
Other women stay poor
You walk the streets and you' re going nowhere
But they know where to find you, cos you' re always there
You know you' re always there
And you' ve been on this road before, and I know
You' ve been through this way before, and I know
Well you know what it's like to be be doneon your luck
For a drink, going out just to get messed up again well I read it in the news, they dragged her ashore.
There was something hanging round her neck
Wasn' t really too sure.
But nobody' s gonna cry for you - and nobody cares,
You' re just a Leeson Street LADy
Out selling your wares.
This is the first time, that she' s been treated like a lady.
Cos they' re letting her go first, through her own front door.
Well that' s all because, Leeson Street Lady
She' s not a lady anymore - she' s not a lady anymore.
There' s another Leeson Street Lady walking down
Appian Way
There' s another Leeson Street Lady, she' ll be walking night and day.
