An intrusion on the world of education
Learning about possibilities
That I know will never really happen
Counted out before the counting begins

A gap between intentions and expressions the pause before your choice in truth or dare
In the end it all adds up to memories
Put it's lost no matter what it was

I do very little things that matter
And I see a blissful bit of it in you
There's no answer you reject the question
We can choose to be and not to be

Was in the neighbourhood
Still in the neighbourhood
