Should have left a note
Should have tried to strike that chord of hope
That you've talked so much about
Or at least thank you
For letting me sleep on your couch again
Thank you friend

You're a little like me
You're the center of the periphery
I'm a little like you
The schizophrenic doubt in all that you do

A trust that broke a worn out belief
A cruel joke without the comic relief
Well you've seen all this
No one is immune to what goes on
You should know awaited bum

You're a little like me
And I'm so sorry
A sorry dead-ringer
Of who I used to be
Of everything I tried to be
I'm a little like you
The trite beauty of the view
I'm a little like you
The light within is also in you
I saw it in you
