Every day I make these lists of things that absolutely have to get done Funny, I have never written to myself, "Be sure to have fun"
Mothers' Mother's getting older still she's got a lot of things to say
Those days when she'll be silent may seem violent
But they're days that aren't too far away I'd just love to sit and talk to you
But there's all these things I've got to do Could I borrow fourteen hours Future's on it's way so every day I pave a road that I've been told is secure But giving up my time for peace of mind that's not so peaceful Leaves me not so sure Maybe, work that's never done, is work that should have never begun
I find that I feel fine when I resign to walk in time
Instead of timing my run Sometimes I think I think too much Turn off my mind and let's tune in to touch
Could I borrow just fourteen hours
So you ask me when this whole thing stops Seems I won't slow till I drop, like it or not because Seems I won't slow till I drop
Could I borrow just fourteen hours
