Four years later I still
Watch you sleeping
Dreaming of a place faraway that you could call home
Not all that you'd hoped for Such disappointment
But I hope you plan to stick with me no matter what

I forgot to leave a breadcrumb trail
To show the way to the beginning
I forgot to notch the branches that point back to the start

But I still love you like the days we could only make out
On the way home on the side of ninety-six
And I still love you all the ways I did when I first said
I do love you

Sixteen seasons past and I
Join you dreaming
Going to a place faraway that we'll call home
Not all hope is lost yet
Hearts, stars & rockets
To break & mend again, to light the way, and to take us there

I forgot to leave a breadcrumb trail

To show the way to the beginning
I forgot to notch the branches that point back to the

But I still love you like the days we could only dream of Falling asleep together every single night
And I still love you all the ways I did when I first said
I do love you
(break it down)

Looking for an answer to a simple question...
Are you done with me?

Because I still love you like the nights spent in your basement

Falling out to modest mouse & sunny day
And I still love you all the ways I did when I first said
I do love you
I still love you like the days we could only make out
At the reststops at the side of ninety-six
And I still love you all the ways I did when I first said
I do love you
