One year, two years, time goes by. People laugh and people cry. Every morning the clock strikes eight. I go to work. I close the gate. And on my way, I sing a song. About my wife, where I belong. If the clouds get together and talk about the weather. If it's rain they anticipate. Baby make no mistake. Yes the storm will break but never me you see. Two years on . two years on . But only you can see me. Only you can see me. For what I've got. Sir Lancelot was just a dream and I am not. For I am he with something more. It's you and I reality. If the cloud get together and talk about the weather. If it's rain they anticipate. Baby, make no mistake. Yes the storm will break but never me you see. Two years on . two years on . But only you can see me. Only you can see me. Two years on . two years on . Ah....
