Side by side you ride with us.

Day and night we feed your lust.

Do you even know who we are?

Time breaks us out.

Lime light screams and shouts

Do you even know who we are?

Eyes are blinded by subsided snow.

Lives get winded by presided glow.

Some are enlightened, most don't have a clue.

Don't be frightened, I just might have a way for you.

Stop living in a world of beauty queens,

Cause life is much more, than a book of dreams.

Flap your wings along these charming winds

That lead us to where we are.

Fear and courage walk with us.

Increase your pulse, feel the rush

So you could know, who we are.

Pace starts to get fast.

Try to hold on, try to last

So you could know, who we are.

Stop living in a world of beauty queens,

Cause life is much more, than a book of dreams.

Flap your wings along these charming winds,

(There is a meaning behind the words...)

That lead us to where we are.

(... a great feeling beneath the chords.)
