We've reached the crossroads
Of what makes truth and lies
No more time will pass by
We need to draw the line
All the things you did
They left me so betrayed
The words you never said
Now begin to fade away

You have a way of hiding everything in your life
I can't feel the way that I used to You're not the person I once knew
It's not too late to escape this fate
Tell me what your secret is

Out of time, when your life was on the line
When you start to see the signs, don't let go
Just let your wings unfold

We've reached the crossroads
Of what makes truth and lies
No excuses this time, we need to draw the line

The act is slowly fading, it's time to step in the spotlight
No escaping now, there is no place to hide

Out of time, when your life was on the line
When you start to see the signs, don't let go
Just let your wings unfold

Tell me what your secret is

We've reached the crossroads of where your secrets lie
No one left to confide and now you've crossed the line
This is your crossroad, this is where your secrets die

Out of time, when your life was on the line
When you start to see the signs, don't let go
Just let your wings unfold

And now you've crossed the line
