Not interested in politics or don't want to fucking face it But if we don't stand against oppression we might as well embrace it When we act as if it doesn't affect us we do nothing but pretend Because there's not a single place on earth that doesn't belong to them Governed by the policies of an ignorant bigoted few Targeted by the tactics they so willingly abuse They manipulate our means of survival, discourage our desire to react And insure our lack of involvement by keeping our apathy intact

Fuck what you think you know-don't want to deal with politics?
Fuck what you think you know-but there's no escape
Fuck what you think you know-where do you think you're going to hide?
Fuck what you think you know-we're behind enemy lines

Lines are all they feed us when politicians speak of freedom Masquerading as democracy's guardians to make it seem as if we need them They're out to save us from ourselves and contradict our common sense
As bureaucracy batters self-reliance at everyone's expense

Fuck what you think you know-don't want to deal with
politics?
Fuck what you think you know-but there's no escape
Fuck what you think you know-where do you think you're going to hide?
Fuck what you think you know-we're behind enemy lines

What can we hope to accomplish when fighting in a war Where those who we are fighting against are also the ones we're working for People reach their breaking point when they've got nothing left to lose So they sedate us with tiny victories that keep us all defused Diverting our attention away from their power that they defend Fearing what we're capable of if we didn't depend on them

Fuck what you think you know-don't want to deal with
politics?
Fuck what you think you know-but there's no escape
Fuck what you think you know-where do you think
you're going to hide?
Fuck what you think you know-we're behind enemy lines
