I need
To find an answer
'Cause I'm still
Asking the same questions

As I did a year ago, have I not learnt a thing Anything at all, shed some light because I'm drowning
Just a clue will do before I make the same mistake again
Do I have to wipe the slate clean and start off, start over and over again

It's late, much too late now
Let fate have this way out
How long must I wait for
A way out or last call

And I need
Some kind of relief
To quench this incessant insanity

Start again and finish off what I first started Draw a line and keep head above water and swim

Where to go I just don't know just do not look down Scale the heights and try to come out unscathed at the other side

It's late, much too late now
Let fate have this way out
How long must I wait for
A way out or last call

Hanging on by the teeth I'll figure it out some day
Any clue will do I'll find it one of these days
Here we go again, still not far from where I began Chances are I won't retreat on regret when I am looking back

It's late, much too late now
Let fate have this way out
How long must I wait for

A way out or last call

Let fate have this way out
How long must I wait for
A way out or last call
