No closer to the one you thought you could be
No further from where you set out
You may not understand this now
It's just a price to pay, never to feel this way again

Heroes rise and fall
You've got to die to live

The bottom drops, feels like you're alone
Nothing to hold on to
Or catch you if you fall
In this place, voices, louder then before
In your heart unlock the door, you need to be free to feel

Heroes rise and fall, you've got to die to live
Die to live again

How long must you wait, for your hero to show Before your free, will you carry on. Before the sun heroes fall
Before they're free, soul carries on
