It's nature's way
There's a point of no return
For all of the love in your heart you've forsaken
It's nature's way
There's a lesson you should learn
While all of the life in your blood is still aching

And I
I think you will see to your own undertaking

By all of the madness of your own making

It's nature's way
Of letting you know
There once was a truth but you stopped believing
It's nature's way
Of letting you go
You once had a use but you stopped receiving
