Everyday is a nightmare
With every night there lies a dream...

These faces are fading away with every word
Every word you say
Now what is it that you really want?
That you're looking for?
Bow down and pray
Never to obey
What's the question? What's the answer?
It can't save you...

They want power, we want respect...

Live by your own words & your own dreams

Never break this oath
Don't let them tell you what to do and never how to think
Now what is it that you really want?
That you're looking for?
Now you know the question, and you know the answer.
You get what you fucking deserve.

They want power, we want respect...

Make the best of what you got
Make the best of what you are...
