she lays in bed at night and no one wants to come the thought of things being wonderful circling in her head the things will never be that way it seems in her lifetime her daddy just has ran away not leaving them a dime and i know that life is hard but things all change

and the bad times are gonna come but there's one thing that remains and that's the father and his love and thought the wind blows the anchor will hold you through the wind and stormy times i put my trust in you
to get me through so things can be wonderful wonderful

he lays in pain again in a hospital bed
the news is bad
the doctor says the cancer spread
is all but now deceased soon heavans gates will open wide bringing him to peace

couldn't things just be couldn't things just be wonderful
