So they say she gave up life and threw it all away to make sense of all her doubts of yesterday And next in line is something that can only speak with time
Indestructible; a secret that is so divine

Dear Paige I'm sorry
Please understand if you only had one more chance to make this right, would you show me tonight?

Just yesterday, the story told of people in dismay Crowded parking lots filled with those who thought she'd stay

But still she's trying; she's always trying to find sight of utopia;
a Shangri-la that shines delight

Dear Paige I'm sorry
Please understand if you only had one more chance
to make this right, would you show me tonight?
Dear Paige I'm sorry
Please understand if you only had one more chance to start again, would it ever end?
