God damn, it's a great day for a love song
The sun's shining, I'm fine, just done being lost
I don't need another reason to leave this all behind
To hell with all the seasons
All I need is you and I feel just fine
I won't worry about tomorrow
Because I love, love, love today
Don't you get me started on how big I think your heart is

I just needed something new
A big lie that I could hold onto
A little something to get me through this
The same old ways just don't make sense to me

God damn, it's a great day for a love song
The sun's shining, I'm fine, just done being lost
I don't need someone else to tell me, these years are all I'll ever know
Fake it if you have to, anything to win the world
And don't worry about tomorrow, first you got to figure out today
And don't you get me started on how big I think your heart is

I just needed something new
A big lie that I could hold onto
A little something to get me through this
The same old ways just don't make sense to me

Well alright, let's get down to the facts
I loved you more, you loved me less
While I was into The Cure, you were listening to country on the radio
Not the good kind like the men in black used to make Tell me what you think about the thought that,
No one sings good songs anymore
We're all running out to nothing, waiting for a sign it'll be alright
Well I'm not here to cause a scene
I just wanted to say...

I hope you're happy

Wa-uh oh-oh-oooh [x4]

(I'm so alive) [x10]

Wa-uh oh-oh-oooh [x8]
