when i said that we were leaving i didn't think you didn't believe me but your hands took the clouds and turned them into light
we should put our names in boxes pack them away for a while and move somewhere west like arizona or anywhere just along as it's not here there we were calm, collected, lovely bright eyed with our shoes in our hands the rain came down, you said the sky was falling so we sang a song about summer and just danced oh, i'm so glad we're here we made it even though they fucked us over goes to show destiny is a lie when you've got love you don't need luck from a four leaf clover easy does it believeing is too easy just because they've got some years on you doesn't mean they are right anyone can say some words from a scripture or a book but it takes a movement to hit a switch and spread the
you cry for a revolution but then you close your eyes so tell me why are you asking "why" see it takes hope to have hope and love to spread love peace can't come from a gun in your hand no more worrying let's lay and let it be here we are resolute, alive and fine today's a word we should all hold onto we need to take our time and run with it instead of waiting for a sign
