True Love (Never Goes Out Of Style): Beverley Mahood

I've got a picture of them outside their college dorm
In clothes and hair they'd rather forget they'd ever worn

With their arms around each other when they first started dating

He looks like one of The Monkees

She looks like Marcia Brady

Things may come and things may go

And some will linger for a while

But true love never goes out of style

And here's the happy couple in a wedding photograph

And lookin' at it now even they can't help but laugh

She's in a mini dress, platforms and thick eye shadow

The same shade as his baby blue tuxedo

'Cause things may come and things may go

And some will linger for a while

And though some things change

One thing stays the same

True love never goes out of style

True love never goes out of style

Watchin' mom and dad growing older now together

Learning from them how to make love last forever

And today they celebrate their silver anniversary

They can't believe how many years have passed by so quickly

His hair's the only thing that's thinner

Hers is a different shade

But neither one of them have noticed any change

Things may come and things may go

And some will linger for a while

And though some things change

One thing stays the same

True love, true love

True love never goes out of style
