There's Nothing Great About A Heartache
Bad 4 Good

Somebody told me I'm supposed to feel this way
That a heart can never reach a peak of truth until it breaks
That you feel nothing, until you feel like your nothing
And that pure suffering, it's to keeps that muscle pumping
Well I'm beat, give me back my inexperience keep the heat
Let me trade it for deliverence

Nothing's great about a heatache
There's nothing that I wanna learn from all this pain
I'd rather not feel love than to have to feel this way
Like I'm dying, you've all been lying
Cause there's nothing great about a heartache

Somebody told me life can sometimes bring ya pain
That the spirit carries passion like thee thunder carries rain
And that our emotions are a test to our devotions
Just like devastation is the path to recreation
But when I bleed, give me back my childhood innocence and the peace
And my faith in the future

Nothing's great about a heartache
There's nothing that I wanna learn from all this pain
I'd rather not feel love than to have to feel this way
Like I'm dying, you've all been lying
Cause there's nothing great about a heartache

Somebody told me I'm supposed to feel this way
That a heart can never reach a peak of truth until it
breaks
