"Too Much Yang"

I like my friends when they're heartbroken and in need of company but they all seem to have things figured out and no one ever calls me

So if you feel like it
I always feel like it I'll bring my problems too

I'm here drinking all by myself making plans for the future in the big scheme and everything
the world's got too much yang

Sometimes not so well-paid women come and talk to me they all say a time will come for my home-sick soul you see

And while their faces are lying I'm kind of glad they're tying here's to battered women's rides

I'm here drinking all by myself
I'm gonna make my share of trouble
in the big scheme and everything
