She said now I can interpret the smile on his face
He was relieved because now the decision was made
Things went awry and I can't understand why
I'm so confused and I'm utterly sad
My stamina is weakened and my voice is trembling
How could I possibly get strong through this?
It took some days to understand you were gone

When love is not enough
(You grow tired of weeping)
When love is not enough
(It's a-pounding on your brain)
When love is not enough
(It's keeping you from sleeping)
When love is not enough
(It's driving you insane)

I saw your face through the wine coloured light last night
There was nothing I could say and there was nothing I could do
The earth was shaking under my feet and the ice was melting under my shoes
So tell me what good could come out of this
How could I possibly mitigate the pain
It took some weeks to understand you were gone

When love is not enough
(You grow tired of weeping)
When love is not enough
(It's a-pounding on your brain)
When love is not enough
(It's keeping you from sleeping)
When love is not enough
(It's driving you insane)

Susan says "even though it's sad
It was meant to happen there's a purpose behind"

My eyes turned black I hit the fist through my window
I said "leave me alone and don't you ever come back"
You're not entitled to make a sound
Don't intervene don't try to do good
I still don't understand you are gone

Let us mourn this loss alone
(We don't want no intervention)
Let us mourn this loss alone
(This is not about you)
Let us mourn this loss alone
(We've had enough of your pretension)
Let us mourn this loss alone
(This is not about you)

When love is not enough
(You grow tired of weeping)
When love is not enough
(It's a-pounding on your brain)
When love is not enough
(It's keeping you from sleeping)
When love is not enough
(It's driving you insane)
