I am so sorry that I bothered you
Now I know why you have to hide
I didn't know what you were going through
All I could see was my own sign

I will just fade away
I will let you be here
I won't say a word until you come to me
Until you come to me
Until you come to me

They just tell me what you're in there for
How could I know you did not say?
But now I know what I am living for Tomorrow will be just another day

I will close my eyes
And I hear a quiet peep
I will wait in the shadows until you come to me
Until you come to me
Until you come to me, oh

Ah, sweet youth will all too quickly end
And we will never be this free
So all I ask is that we look again
Before we grow too old to see

I will fall alone
My elm was sweet and envy
Still I will be crying until you come to me
Until you come to me
Until you come to me, ah
