Mr. Panda, whatcha gonna do cause
As man expands there's no bamboo for you to chew through
But who can undo
The wrongs to the panda just to expand the Land for man
What a dumb plan
Just ask the orangutan!
His forest's shrinking what are we thinking wiping
Out species without blinking

I'm afraid of grizzly bears but don't you see
That grizzly bears should really be afraid of me
There's trouble in the jungle
Ooooooh oooooh ooh
There's trouble in the jungle
We find that mankind is not so kind at all

Hey there, Komodo dragon
Why you got your big tail wagging?
Your numbers are down, they're under 5000
Now that's bound to raise some eyebrows and You there, Mr. Bengal Tiger
Keep hiding cause they're gonna try to take your claws to sell in drugstores make tiger rug floors to match the decors

I'm so scared of tigers but I guarantee
Those stripy guys should really be afraid of me
There's trouble in the jungle
Oooooohhhh
There's trouble in the jungle
We find that mankind is not so kind at all.

[Instrumental]

Pygmy Hippopotamus, little sea otter
Just do watcha gotta to stay in the water
Cause you're under threat from those who forget
You're still an animal it's understandable

When we gaze in our crystal ball

If we escalate with this urban sprawl
It'll be too late, no hope at all
For all creatures great and all creatures small.
Too late yet?
If we can't find the cause of the flaws in our own nature
How can we oppose the laws of the great outdoors?

I'm afraid of grizzly bears but don't you see
That grizzly bears should really be afraid of me
There's trouble in the jungle
Ooooooh ooooooh ooh
There's trouble in the jungle
We find that mankind is not so kind at all
