I called you up
To take you out for drinks
But you said it was too late
You already had a your high on
I said I'd come over
Just to scratch you back
But you said: give me a break
You already had a high on a high on
I thought of packing up my shit
And leaving town
When the car broke down
By the time I got back home
I found you on the floor

Use to care but now I don't
Death is sweet and life's a joke
And I've already got my high on my high on
As I wallow in the pain and waste away
And I just wish that I could fall asleep
Just fall asleep

I've tried but I just can't forget
I hear your voice inside my head
I've already got my high on
I've already got my high on
I've already got my high on
