(by Ron Davies)

Kneeling in the moonlight, gazing on the shore, the girl with the blue bouquet What if you got it, what you're praying for? Careful what you pray

You turn around, the old way is gone, you wonder how you will carry on All my pride I will lay aside, I will steal across the border for you

Lying in the dusty shadows of your bed, dreaming on a clear blue sky Paying for something that you never even did, victim of a time gone by

You turn around, everything has changed, familiar scenes have been rearranged All my life I will work and strive, I will steal across the border for you
border for you.
