Another week in the drivers seat with your feet up on the dashboard rain it kept a steady beat as I watch you dream of Houston how you're never going back yes sir thats a fact as you wave your cowboy hat and sang the Yellow Rose of Texas just trying to make high ground has kept us on the run there's no crime in toeing the line because fortune is smiling on us baby and we're gunna walk in the sun

I might dream about Houston but Houston don't dream about me if I can keep it between the lines who knows what we'll be?

Loose change days and motel nights day old coffee, dollar post cards state troopers flashing lights as we listen to the thunder as we talked about our past so we'd see our coming future you tell me you know love can last while staring out the window just lookin' for a place to hide a place to ease our minds a place away from yesterday close to tomorrow

away from the sorrows of living other people's time

but houston don't dream about me
who knows what we'll be?

how long how long

til we feel a change?
how long how long
will the skies be gray?
how long how long
will it be this way?
how long how long
will she stay?

I might dream about houston
but houston don't dream about me
who knows what we'll be?
but houston don't dream about me
who knows what...
who knows what...
we'll be?
