All the things she was promised everyone
All the lights were from inside her
The angels left today there's nothing more to say
They're lost and now they're coming here
But Holly would never understand this anyway
A farewell to the dreams and all the memories
I'm sorry but I have no guilt now
Hello to loneliness it's here at your request
You've made your bed so you should lie down
But Holly would never understand this anyway
They's why we sing
Your dad is worried sick and I can't believe you're Stuck in this Holly
When you coming home Holly, when are you coming home
I see your tower fine but I can't make in mine
I'm not impressed with all you shine on I'll buy no more today I just stopped by to say
The train just left and you never got on
