(DIE YOUNG)

go to the wind, though the wind won't help you fly at all, your back's to the wall then chase the sun, n it tears away and breaks you as you run,you run, you run behind the smile, there's danger n a promise to be told, you never get old life's fantasy, to be locked away n still you think you're free,you're free, we're free so live for today tomorrow never comes die young die young can't you see the writting in the air die young gonna die young someone stopped the faith

then chase the sun, n it tears away n it breaks you as

live for today tomorrow never comes

die young
young die you die young
die young die young die young die young
