I greet the day, only a shadow of my former self, unclear of where i stand Ashes scattered into memory, and we walk away with empty hands
I greet the sun, at the edge of my world, cast in a shadow of doubt
In these feilds weve buried our hearts, and now were losing ground

How much can they put you through? face in your battered hands
Who will console you? or does it hurt to ask

We have so much to overcome
Look passed our differences, are they too much?
We have so much to overcome
Look passed our differences, are you innocent?
Are you innocent'are you innocent?
Breaking the light of the sun

Do your dreams turn on you? or do they shine?
Are they like the sun? Have they made you blind?

How much can they take from you? their fingers down your throat
Who will plow your fields? now that nothing wants to grow
We have so much to overcome
Look passed our differences, are they too much?
We have so much to overcome
Look passed our differences, are you innocent?
Are you innocent?
Are you innocent?
Breaking the light of the sun

Can we forget this past? Can we leave it all behind?
It's been so long, They said all wounds heal with time
It's been so long, They said all wounds heal with time

Why should our deaths overshadow our lives?

We have so much to overcome

Look passed our differences, are they too much?
We have so much to overcome
Look passed our differences, are you innocent?
Are you innocent? are you innocent?
Breaking the light of the sun
You're breaking the light of the sun
You're breaking the light of the sun
You're breaking the light of the sun
You're breaking the light of the sun
