modoranai kedo

hizunda kioku no you na toki no naka de itsuka wakari aeru kara

Injured with pain and sadness, the you that cannot be healed
Shoulder the burden of the past that cannot be erased;
don't throw away your will to live

Your hand that I held...

Will we lose it someday?
I want to protect you and that disappearing smile
The ringing voice that calls me dries out Even if it gets erased by the wind along time I will find you

Injured with pain and sadness, the you that cannot be
healed
Don't say words like you can't smile or you hate people Everything that happens in the unseen future has a meaning
So stay like this, there'll come a time when you will realize

Like a rusted person

It felt so hollow to just pile atop one another You said you could live on your own Just with the usual kind words You ache to a point where I cannot reach you

Your hand that I held searched for some simple kindness
Do you remember By learning pain, you can become a person who can be kind to others

Drive your Life

Injured with pain and sadness, the you that cannot be
healed

Don't say words like you can't smile or you hate people Everything that happens in the unseen future has a
meaning

How can I see the meaning of life Disappearing, you're the only. . .

So you will not break, you distance yourself from me
Don't say words like you can't smile or you hate people Now it's by and by, even if you cannot see, there's a meaning to everything Shoulder the burden of the past that cannot be erased;
don't throw away your will to live

You'd better forget everything. Remember. . . your different Life?

You'd better forget everything. Remember. . . though, we cannot return
