Bow down

Bow down before your god

The hand that raised you and turned you into a man

Your monument to hold you up when you are down

The one who told you were the best son

When really she meant

You're a worthless piece of shit

I really don't believe you could ever betray this

All I know is you have this figure to look up to

Can you imagine this could all be taken from you?

In the blink of an eye

Stripped from under your nose

And set free into the night

And you're left to make your own choices

Choices

No one to turn to

Never to see their face again

How would that make you feel?

Would you want to end it all?

The one who told you, you were the best son

When really she meant

You're a worthless piece of shit

You haven't figured out

Look up to

Can you imagine this could all be taken from you?

In the blink of an eye

Stripped from under your nose

Do what you want

Do what you know

Just to be with them again

For nothing else in your sad, pathetic

Worthless life could ever compare

Would you shy from the human race?

Welcome to my world

Welcome to my world

Welcome to my world

Now bow before your God
The hand that raised you and turned you into a man
Welcome to my world
