I lost my will somehow And found the concept to win All thoughts cant' be allowed So all: repent and join in

Let us all just be the same Join in hands and walk the same way Those who differ take the blame Raise your head and walk without shame Everything would just be plain All should learn to play the same game Walk the same way Feel the same We'll be buried in the same grave When the world's tamed End of days If we all could be the same way Talk the same way Walk the same way
