A dead dominion, a world without human existence
Your war of religion has cleansed this planet of life

I defy your thoughts of a higher purpose
You're a defamation of your own dying race

You're living in denial, can't accept the fact
That the world can live and flourish without your god
Enticing others to join you, in your life of lies
The judgement has fallen upon humanity

Easily persuaded to bow their heads for an idol
To go into war and slay in blind faith

I defy your thoughts of a higher purpose
You're a defamation of your own dying race

You're living in denial, can't accept the fact
That the world can live and flourish without your god
Enticing others to join you, in your life of lies
The judgement has fallen upon humanity
