It's broken again, it's broken again
always the same as no one gains when everything is perfect it's all manufactured with a defect

And since they can live on us we live through them
yes we live through them

They're making us needing them in a physical way
they're making us needing them in a mental way

Now rebellion ain't no longer old che's face on children's clothes

Make us never stop needing more make us never feel self-assured, 'cos we ain't for sure

And since they can live on us we live through them

I am perfect when naked and unleashed

They're making us needing them in a physical way
they're making us needing them in a mental way

Fuck that bloody idea take a culture and sell it expensive

It's all so calculated, it's all so calculated with perfection it gets so complicated

It's broken again, it's broken again!

yes we live through them

They're making us needing them in a physical way
they're making us needing them in a mental way
