She don't know how it feels to flow through life
You see she knows what it is that they want her to be
She knows what they want her to be
So she tries religiously to become it
We all look through the same window at life
And see what it is that we each want to see
We know what we each want to see
So we try religiously to see it
I don't want it but it has me
I don't need it but it loves me
Can't kill it
This insecurity
And now you've done it too much too late
