Now we leave the world of mortals
Deceiving by the whores of the flesh Are we blessed enough to see the light led to the edge then pushed to falling

Staring down into the depth Deeper and deeper below we sink
But life down there is just a strange illusion across the vast fields of the underworld Feel the pain deep within your flesh surrounded by the light of the moon Is this the home of your ancient fathers
Or the visual projection of your soul

This is a sacred place
But darkness has engraved your mind
